

(...) The conclusion we can draw is that each historical formation sees and reveals all it can within the conditions laid down for visibility, just as it says all it can within the conditions relating to statements.

Gilles Deleuze, Foucault, University of Minnesota Press, 1995, 1986